These are the Diffusion, Osmosis & Active Transport Lecture materials used to supplement an actual college cell biology course.

Diffusion, Osmosis & Active Transport Lecture Materials

Osmosis (/ ɒˈzˌmɒs ɪs /) is the spontaneous net movement of solvent molecules through a selectively permeable membrane into a region of higher solute concentration, in the direction that tends to equalize the solute concentrations on the two sides.

Osmosis - Wikipedia

Facilitated diffusion, also called carrier-mediated osmosis, is the movement of molecules across the cell membrane via special transport proteins that are embedded in the plasma membrane by actively taking up or excluding ions.

Passive transport - Wikipedia

Diffusion is a physical process where molecules of a material move from an area of high concentration (where there are many molecules) to an area of low concentration (where there are fewer molecules).
